“It was exciting to meet so many competent people and some of the field’s foremost scholars. I am looking forward to digging into and using what I learned in my further research.”

(Regin, Denmark)

Summer Schools

Elevate your academic career this summer.

Summer Schools

The University of Groningen summer schools are always research-driven, and many of them are multidisciplinary, offering a wide range of perspectives.

You will be taught by our academics in interactive small groups and work intensively together with inspired researchers. We invite all students and staff to look beyond the obvious, to be involved, purposeful and creative, and to engage in scientific and social debates on both local and global issues.

Over 40 research-intensive courses in:

- Culture, Arts & Religion
- Economics, Business and Environment
- International Relations and History
- Philosophy
- Medical Sciences
- Social Sciences and Law
- Sciences, Energy and Engineering
